Ronson To Break Ground For New Plant

Aid Request Approved By Federal Unit

THE FEDERAL Housing and Home Finance Administration has approved the allocation of $29,420 for planning purposes in East Stroudsburg.

Announcement of the appropriation was made yesterday by Congressman Walter (D-Easton) and J. H. Stoner, East Stroudsburg flood rehabilitation coordinator.

The East Stroudsburg application is believed to be the first of its kind in the country to gain Federal approval.

Fund Distribution

To be used solely for planning purposes, $16,977 will go for plans for a borough sewage system, $6,566 for specifications for an improved water system, and $5,877 for plans for street improvements.

The funds will be turned over to borough officials at 2:30 next Wednesday afternoon at the municipal building by David Walker, regional director of the Federal agency, and Leslie Doldge, his assistant.

Stoner also reported that the Department of Forests and Waters will send an area engineer to the area to survey the need for temporary flood control along Broadheads Creek.

Stoner said the borough is particularly concerned with problems arising from the old Susquehanna roadbed. Having explained the situation to Rep. Van Yeter, Stoner quoted the lawmaker as promising to relay the request for temporary flood control to the Department of Forests and Waters.

Water Samples Taken

The BOIL YOUR WATER edict remains in effect in East Stroudsburg, Stoner said.

However, he added, Russell Kluck of the State Health Department has been collecting samples of borough water.

These have been analyzed by Pocono Laboratories and the daily tests are being compared in the hope that the ban against drinking tap water can be removed at the earliest advisable moment Stoner disclosed.

Stoner also reported that there was no damage to the borough's water system. Chlorination has simply been a precautionary measure, he added.

LOUIS V. ARONSON, 2nd, president of Ronson Corp. announced yesterday—with emphasis on his concern's "confidence" in this region—that this new $1 million dollar plant will be built on a tract of land in Delaware Water Gap. The plant faces Route 611 immediate approach to the toll bridge. It will house the firm's entire lighter production when completed next June. Ground will be broken early next month for the brick 110,000-square-foot structure with cafeteria, huge parking area and outdoor recreation field for employees. Tract on which plant will be erected was covered by 14 to 15 feet of Delaware River flood waters, but Mr. Aronson said flood control and engineering studies bolstered Ronson board of directors' decision to proceed with project.

Firm Expresses Confidence In Region's Future

GROUND WILL BE broken for the new $1 million Ronson Corp. lighter production plant on a 55-acre tract at Delaware Water Gap early in October, Louis V. Aronson, 2nd, president of Ronson announced yesterday afternoon.

The announcement was immediately hailed in business and industrial circles as "a tremendous shot in the arm" to this region on the heels of the Aug. 18-19 flood disaster.

"We are as much a part of this community as the banks, the college and other institutions," Mr. Aronson said.

"Our decision should be a demonstration of confidence in this region to industry, wherever it may be located," he said.

The tract on which the new plant will be located was under 14 to 15 feet of water Aug. 19 when the Delaware River, hit by flood waters all along its great watershed broke its banks.

"Freak Of Nature"

"We felt that was a freak of nature which may not happen again for 150 years," Mr. Aronson said, and added: "Of course we expect the proper governmental agencies to take adequate flood control measures."

The first announcement of the plans for the new structure came only a few days before the flood hit. The day it hit, Ronson was prepared to announce additional details of its plans as to contracts, etc.

Mr. Aronson said the entire Board of Directors of Ronson concurred in the move to proceed with the new plant on the big tract bounded by 2,000 feet of Route 611 where that highway approaches the Delaware River Bridge toll gates.

Yesterday Mr. Aronson said Ronson has entered into a construction contract and long-term lease with Sherrill-Moonan, Inc. of York, Pa. for the erection and leasing of the new 110,000-square-foot Ronson lighter manufacturing plant.

Ready Next June

The plant, built to Ronson's plans and specifications, is expected to be ready for occupancy around June, 1956.

The new brick and steel plant will centralize Ronson's American Lighter production, now maintained in three widely separated buildings in East Stroudsburg.

In addition, Ronson has manufacturing plants for lighters, flints, electric shavers and aircraft parts in Newark, Stamford, Conn.; Pasadena, Cal.; Toronto, Canada, and London, England.

Mr. Aronson said that as the most modern lighter production center in the world, the new structure will include facilities for research and development in the lighter and accessory fields.

The latest equipment for metal finishing, plating and enameling will be installed in the manufacturing section. This will include new Swiss engine-turning machines recently purchased by Ronson.

Beside providing for a cafeteria and other interior accommodations for employees, the plans include an athletic field adjacent the plant, and ample parking facilities for plant personnel and visitors.

Safety Devices Law Predicted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.) says the "dreadful" highway toll of recent years may compel Congress to pass a law requiring automobile safety devices.

The senator said, in a statement issued by his office, these devices "might help to make automobiles less hazardous."

Safety belts on all seats, locking devices to prevent car doors from springing open in a crash, sponge rubber cushions on dash boards, shatter-proof window glass and a small fire extinguisher in every car.

Charles H. Rushmore, Monroe County coroner, ordered the body of the boy previously buried in New Jersey exhumed and returned to this area for identification as a result of the new development.

Information concerning the body recovered from debris yesterday was fragmentary. The sex, approximate age and—of course—the identity, were unknown last night.

Investigation of the new body for details leading to possible identification will begin today, Dr. Rushmore said.

Young Kehmna's mother, Susan, was also drowned in the flood. Her body had been previously identified. Both were guests at Camp Davis.

After Burial: Correction

The body returned here and identified as the Kehmna boy had been found on Aug. 21. It was identified on Aug. 22 by the father of David Johnson of Jersey City as the body of his son.

A body discovered last week-end was then identified, through a wallet containing papers and the clothing in which it was clad, as that of the Johnson boy. Dr.

Water Issues Considered At Meeting

WATER PROBLEMS arising from the flood last night were discussed at a joint meeting of Stroudsburg Borough Council, the Stroudsburg Municipal Authority and representatives of the Monroe County Water Co.

The meeting was closed to the press.

However, Attorney George T. Robinson, borough counsel, said later that water company officials agreed to study matters presented at the meeting and report back to the council and authority at a later date.

Dock Strike Tapers Off Along Coast

By Arthur Everett

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — An East Coast dock strike tapered off today, although the sprawling New York waterfront lay idle for the third day in a row. More than 70 ships were caught in the million-dollar-a-day tieup.

There was some optimism of an early settlement. However, back-to-work rumors that swept the piers during the day proved unfounded.

The International Longshoremen's Assn. (I.L.A.) called off 25,000 dockers Wednesday in a showdown battle to kill off the bi-state New York-New Jersey Waterfront Commission, a pier policing agency. The I.L.A. accused the commission of trying to wreck the union.

Stoppages Near End

Sympathy work stoppages erupted along the East Coast from Maine to Virginia. Most of them were near an end today, however.

A stoppage of more than 2,000 longshoremen in Boston, Providence, R.I., and Portland, Maine, was called off and longshoremen ordered back to work tomorrow.

New England I.L.A. director Daniel J. Donovan predicted a quick settlement of the New York strike, without explaining his optimism.

Sympathy one-day stoppages were at an end in Philadelphia and Baltimore.

Librarian Subpoenaed

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — Mrs. Mary Knowles, a librarian at Plymouth Meeting, Pa., who once was named a Communist by a witness at a Senate hearing, has been subpoenaed to testify at a public hearing here Sept. 15, the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee announced today.

Murder Probers Disinter Body Buried 46 Years Ago

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 9 — Grave-diggers, working under the supervision of state and county authorities, today exhumed the body of Stephen A. Gilby, which was buried in Maplewood Cemetery, Carbondale, in May, 1909.

Gilby was thought to have been the victim of accidental death, but the possibility exists that he may have been murdered.

The disinterment of his remains was undertaken under a court order issued upon petition of Dist. Atty. Carlton M. O'Malley, who is investigating the story of Willis Hayes, 69, Carbondale native, that

Satellite Plans Bared

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Sept. 9 — An American specialist in rocket research said today the United States will launch from 6 to 10 artificial space satellites before the end of 1958 and some may stay in their earth-girdling orbit for as long as a year.

Dr. Homer E. Newell Jr. of the U. S. Naval Research Laboratory made the statement in an address before a special committee of the International Geophysical year, to be celebrated from July 1957, to December 1958, with the launching of the satellites and other events of particular interest to worldwide studies of the earth sciences.

About 40 nations, including the Soviet Union, are participating in the geophysical year events.

Speculates on Duration

Newell said the satellites could remain up from 15 to 30 days at a height of 200 miles and perhaps for a year at a height 300 miles before disintegrating on descent.

He is in charge of the U. S. rockets and satellites program for the geophysical year. The White House announced last July 29 that as part of the American contribution to the United States planned to launch the first manned earth-circling satellites by the end of 1958.

Search Planes Find Debris, Raft, Oil Slick

NAHA, Okinawa, Saturday, Sept. 9 — U.S. Air Force search planes yesterday found an oil slick, debris and a rubber life raft in the sea near where a B29 with 13 aboard vanished Thursday night.

Officials still declined, however, to say that the equipment belonged to the missing Superfort.

The B29 last reported its position at 275 miles southwest of this big U.S. air base island. The debris and life raft were sighted about 200 miles southwest of Okinawa.

Monkey Business Bad

SINGAPORE, Sept. 9 — The monkey business in Malaya is bad. The reason is that Malayan monkeys generally weigh over 6 pounds. Indian monkeys, averaging 3 to 6 pounds, have been found more suitable for making antipoll vaccine.

Tension Probed

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 9 — The four nations guaranteeing border peace between Ecuador and Peru plan to send a commission to investigate current tension on that frontier, a diplomatic source said today.

Drowned Man Identified As Famous Novelist

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9 — The body of a drowned man lay unclaimed in the county morgue for more than 15 hours before it was finally identified today as that of a famed novelist, Stuart Engstrand, 51, whose "The Sling and the Arrow" was once a best seller.

He walked fully clothed into the lake at MacArthur Park yesterday. An hour and a half after the drowning his wife, Mrs. Sophia Engstrand, filed a missing persons report with police, unaware that her husband already was dead.

Witnesses at the park, where the temperature stood at 90, told police Engstrand strolled leisurely into the lake and disappeared from view.

U. S. Drafts Pact Uniting West With East Against Possible German Attack

LONDON, Sept. 9 — The United States has drawn up a dramatic new plan for getting Germany reunited and securing the peace of Europe, official sources said today.

Under the scheme 14 nations of the East and West would sign a security treaty. The effect would be to show U.S. and Western willingness to help defend the Soviet bloc if ever a reunited Germany threatened to attack.

Informants said the State Department has submitted a draft of the treaty, as a basis for discussion, to the British and French governments.

If it wins approval, the expectation here is that U.S. Secretary of State Dulles will propose it to Russia at the Big Four foreign ministers' conference opening Oct. 27 in Geneva.

In exchange for the West's commitment, Russia would be called upon to cooperate in uniting East and West Germany and allowing the united German people to join the North Atlantic Treaty Organization if they wished to do so.

Detaining Of German POWs Prevents Normal Relations With Russia, Says Adenauer

MOSCOW, Sept. 9 — The normal relations Russia seeks with West Germany are "unthinkable" until German war prisoners still held in Russia are released, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer told Soviet leaders today.

Diplomatic, economic and cultural relations between their two countries are necessary for peace and security, the West German leader said at the opening of the crucial conference for which the Kremlin invited him to Moscow.

But, he added, normalization cannot be attained without removing the causes of abnormal relationship—the detention of German prisoners 10 years after World War II and the division of Germany between Communist and non-Communist governments.

Russian Attitude

Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin ignored the prisoner issue in his opening address. He repeated Russia's view that West Germany's membership in NATO and the Western European Union is the great obstacle to reunification of the country.

In Berlin, the East German Communist newspaper Neues Deutschland reported that agreement to release "most" of the Germans still held in Russia had been reached by Soviet and East German representatives on Aug. 22. It said East Germany would continue efforts to settle the fate of the prisoners "finally and for all of Germany."

Observers there believe the Communists may be arranging for East Germany to get credit for freeing the prisoners and that Adenauer may be told here that the matter already has been settled.

West Germans say about 100,000 German war prisoners remain in the Soviet Union, but East Germans and Russians say there are only about 5,000.

Youth Indicted On Murder Count

NORRISTOWN, Sept. 9 — A Montgomery county grand jury indicted John Schuur, 18, of Philadelphia, today on a charge of murdering 19-year-old Carl R. Schwartz, a Souderton, Pa., meat and dairy products salesman.

The grand jury also indicted Virginia Tunstall, 16, of Philadelphia, as an accessory after the fact and for withholding information.

Schuur and the Tunstall girl were arrested Aug. 21 at a summer resort in Wayne County.

Hot, dry weather spread through the Midwest and the Ohio Valley Friday. It was comparatively cool on the east and west coasts and along the Canadian border.

The temperatures in the northern border states were almost chilly—in the 50s and 60s but just to the south readings were much higher. While Duluth, Minn., had a sweater and jacket temperature of 58 degrees, La Crosse, Wis.,—200 miles to the south—sweltered in 96-degree heat.

In the Midwest, it was 95 degrees at Chicago—a new record for the date, 94 at Kansas City, 95 at Evansville, Ind., and 90 at Dayton, Ohio.

It was still warm in southern California—where the year's worst heat wave broke Thursday—but the temperatures were 10 to 20 degrees below a week ago. Los Angeles reported 87 degrees. It was 61 at San Francisco and 62 at Seattle.

Exhumed Body Identified As Jay Kehmna;
Debris Gives Up Remains Of 65th Victim

THERE were two major developments in Monroe County's story of death by flood yesterday.

First—State police and volunteer workers succeeded in getting the body found on Thursday out of its debris trap south of Annapolis along the Broadheads. The death toll remains at 65 known dead.

Second—a body returned to this area from New Jersey after it had been misidentified was positively found to be that of five-year-old Jay Kehmna, 149 Zabriskie St., Jersey City, N. J.

Reformatory Inmates Riot

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 9 — Gun-firing guards and reinforcements broke up a short-lived riot that erupted from a morning-long sit-down strike at the Nebraska Men's Reformatory today.

One inmate was shot and seriously wounded and fire with damage estimated at upwards of $100,000 destroyed shop buildings.

The violence stemmed apparently from the sudden firing yesterday of George Morris, reformatory superintendent for eight years, who recently has been knuckling and statements for their handling of penal administration in the state.

Shouts of, "We want Morris" were heard.

Oust Morris

The State Board of Control, which supervises penal and welfare institutions, said only that it was dismissing Morris "in the interests of the institution." Most observers, however, laid the firing to Morris's outspoken criticism of the board.

A minor fire broke out at the reformatory last night, and about 75 of the reformatory's inmates milled around until given an audience by the new superintendent, M. L. Wimberly. The inmates aired some grievances and protested the dismissal of Morris.

Today's trouble started when the men refused to work in the reformatory's license plate factory, according to Harold Peterson, administrative assistant to the control board. The strike spread to other departments.

Radford Sees No Chance For Defense Cuts

DENVER, Sept. 9 — Adm. Arthur W. Radford declared after conferring with President Eisenhower today that U.S. military security "was never better off"—and that no basic change in defense spending is planned this fiscal year.

Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, made the statement on the national security picture in commenting on former President Truman's assertion that, "The cuts in our ground forces are unjustified and most dangerous at this time."

In a Chicago speech, Truman said the Eisenhower regime has seen fit to cut the military establishment below the goals which the Truman administration fixed, "but it still represents very great military strength."

Knows of No Cuts

Radford stressed that he had not read Truman's remarks about "unjustified and most dangerous" cuts, but the admiral commented:

"I would say that I don't know of any such actions, and I think I would know about them." Then Radford declared:

"I think we have basically a very sound military program. From the standpoint of security, the country was never better off."

Commenting later in Chicago on Radford's remarks, Truman said the admiral "would know about it (the cuts) if he read the newspapers." The former President added:

"I'm glad he says there aren't any cuts. Some of the cuts are already made. The bad ones are contemplated."

Radford conferred with Eisenhower at the Denver White House on national security problems and said the discussion included military spending.

Airlines Study Regulation For Serving Liquor

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 — A threat of federal controls today spurred airline executives toward consideration of a code for the serving of liquor aloft.

Harold L. Pearson, president of the Air Transport Assn., said a proposed code may be taken up at an air traffic conference in San Francisco Nov. 1-3.

Pearson advised the heads of trunk airlines, the only lines now serving alcoholic drinks, that the Civil Aeronautics Board had warned him it may have to take "corrective steps."

He asked for airline reaction to a self-imposed "creed."

Argentine Army Welcomes Offer

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 9 — Argentina's regular army, awaiting the trial of five officers on a charge of plotting rebellion, politely welcomed today an offer of organized labor to serve when needed as a civil militia.

President Juan D. Peron's army minister, Maj. Gen. Franklin Lucero, said the offer by the General Confederation of Labor was generous. And the government, he said, will consider calling the confederation's men to arms in time of crisis.

The CGT, which claims six million members, is Peron's political mainstay. The army was his bulwark in putting down the June 16 revolt of naval-air dissidents. There has been an undercurrent of rivalry between the CGT and the army.

The CGT's offer to form a civil militia, presented Wednesday night, appeared a bid for a share in the spotlight the army won in crushing the revolt.

The Fair is part of summer . . . when crowds throng the old grounds on the far side of the railroad tracks and girls hold hands with their fellows and older people smile, and younger ones literally have a field day.

God smiles on fellowship such as this. And in His Church, he offers the greatest fellowship of all. Here men may join together in prayer and worship, giving thanks for blessings, finding consolation in sorrow, renewing their strength, reaffirming their happiness through faith.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Ronson Corp. Shows The Way Toward Brighter Future In Monroe County Area

"We are as much a part of this community as the banks, the college and other institutions, and we have every confidence in it."

That prefaced an announcement yesterday by Louis V. Aronson, 2nd, president of Ronson Corporation that ground will be broken soon on a recently purchased tract in Delaware Water Gap for a $1 million plant which will handle Ronson's entire lighter manufacturing operation.

Mr. Aronson's announcement and his reasoning, backed by the entire Board of Directors of Ronson's Corp. stands as a terrific shot in the arm of recovery for the Stroudsburgs and vicinity.

"We think this action will demonstrate that industry, no matter where it is located, can have confidence in this region," the Ronson president said.

Here was the head of one of the nation's largest firms—operating internationally—speaking quietly, with confidence, and with certainty about a manufacturing site purchased shortly before the flood of Aug. 19-20, which stood under 14 to 15 feet of water when the Delaware River went on a rampage.

"We think this was a freak of nature," said Aronson. "And we expect governmental agencies to institute proper flood control procedures. This thing may not happen again in 150 years."

Aronson and his board of directors, besides this demonstration of confidence in this community as an industrial operating center, were also showing the people they employ, the business-commercial operations, the banks, municipal and higher governmental authorities the bright path to a future greater than that which existed before the flood.

To Mr. Aronson, his board of directors and other associates, The Daily Record gives its sincere thanks for this demonstration of confidence in the future of this community.

We are sure this very timely and solid demonstration of faith will spur on each and every individual toward a far brighter future than any of us would have believed possible—even before the flood.

Gratitude Of Flood-Hit Residents And All Others To Those Who Helped

As we hear of the generous response of so many citizens to the appeals for aid in the wake of the recent floods, it is equally good to read about that phalanx of good neighbors who sacrificed their week-end in order to help the stricken communities of northwestern Pennsylvania dig out from their burdens of mud and debris.

With no prodding from anyone, some 500 volunteers traveled to the Stroudsburg area over the past weekend and with right good will pitched in to do what they could to help clean up the frightful mess left by the rampaging waters. Another 100 or more are expected today.

This fine Christian act deserves the gratitude of all, not only those whose homes were lost in the flood waters but all of us whose hearts are warmed by such a wonderful display of the brotherhood of man.

George Sokolsky Says...

Goa, Morocco, Cyprus Conflicts Could Lead To Major Conflicts In Europe

Little wars often lead to big wars if ways are not found to limit them. The Indian "peaceful" war on Portugal over the colony of Goa, the Moroccan revolt against France, the Greco-Turkish crisis over Cyprus are dangerous areas of conflict which raise issues over small countries that involve great states and can cause major explosions.

Goa has been a Portuguese colony since 1510. Very little remains of the great Portuguese Empire that once included Brazil, Goa, and its counterpart off the coast of China, Macao, is different from most Asiatic colonies in that the Portuguese and the natives intermarried and produced a new race whose cultural basis is Roman Catholicism. There is no anti-Portuguese movement in Goa, no desire among its people to become part of India. In effect, India is utilizing unorthodox methods of warfare to occupy and absorb the territory of another nation. True, the Indian government has not employed shot and shell, but its methods of mass movements can be as devastating.

The revolt of the Moroccans against France is an inevitable concomitant of the failure of France in Indochina. An empire can only stand as long as it has the physical power to hold the conquered countries on its periphery. Nationalism is rampant in Asia and Africa at the present time and while powerful nations may put down revolts, as long as they are not so powerful as to convince nationalistic groups that they can hold them in any circumstances, there will be new revolts. France lost face by the defeat in Indochina and therefore other nationalistic elements in the French Empire will seek to free themselves.

The Moroccans are not only nationalistic but they are Moslems which means that a potent ideological factor enters into their conflict with Christian France. But is France any longer a Christian country? Do percentages enter into such a question? Could France in Moslem eyes have become a godless country?

In the United States, we are prone to ignore ideological factors. We think in terms of events and actions, which are really secondary and immaterial in the current conflicts. Moslems choose not to be governed by those who are not Moslems and unless the Europeans have the physical strength to hold what is not their own, they must expect such troubles as the Moroccan revolt.

Cyprus is an even more vexed problem. It is British colony populated by a very mixed population, about 80 per cent of whom speak Greek and the rest Turkish. English is also spoken as a lingua franca. The island not only lies close to Turkey but could act as a cork to bottle up the Gulf of Alexandria. Greece and Turkey are allies in NATO and in the Balkan Alliance and therefore have no reason to quarrel. The Turks prefer the status quo; that is, that Cyprus should remain a British colony.

It is really doubtful that the sound leadership of Greece feels that this is the time for a conflict over Cyprus, but nationalistic public opinion has been so aroused in both Greece and Cyprus that no man in public life would dare at this moment to state in the open that he is against the immediate annexation of Cyprus to Greece. Yet men in high places know that such an annexation could lead to a war between Turkey and Greece and that Great Britain would be involved as the actual possessor of Cyprus.

Furthermore, if either Great Britain or Turkey appealed to NATO, the whole of the Western world would be in this thing, including the United States which guaranteed a Western European status quo through NATO.

Also Tito would have something to say as a member of the Balkan Alliance which would be destroyed by such a conflict and therefore lessen the position of Tito in the eyes of the Russians.

This, then, is a very bad situation. In the United States, it becomes complicated by the large and influential Greek minority who are not without a voice in American politics. Like Jewish influence in relation to Israel-Arab controversies, the Greeks have votes in the United States, whereas the Turks do not have votes—none to count. From the standpoint of domestic political realism, the Administration in Washington must find this Greek-Turkish situation unpleasant because this country will support Great Britain and therefore Turkey. All of it spells trouble.

The Great Highway Mystery

What is there about a seat behind the wheel of an auto that makes a man a stinker? Not an amateur or semi-pro stinker but a pro, certified and 100 per cent one? All the elemental rules of courtesy, restraint, good will, kindness and tolerance disappear. The man who takes off his hat in elevators, pats little children on the head and is nice to dogs, glares, leers, grins, shouts, curses and adopts "Mow 'em down!" as his motto toward young and old on the city streets. The kid who is a model of politeness on his feet gets into a motor car and cries: "Gangway for a creepy character!" Women who have just been to a PTA meeting, urging better manners for the small fry, tear off fenders, scream at children and scare pedestrians up trees on their way home. What goes?

It seems to us that the auto picture has demonstrated that a human being, when given a sense of luxury, affluence and power, becomes an unbearable character, straight, place and show. In a position to be tough, ruthless, inconsiderate and lord of all he surveys, his superiority complex goes for double or nothing. There are no more overbearing, pompous, dangerous humans on the roads than you will find driving powerful instruments that call for wisdom, control and a regard for the other fellow. Many a gent who has admirable qualities everywhere else becomes a punk in 3-D when driving a car. If we were trying to round up a top list of entries for the American Carnival of Heels, Poinails, Loudmouths and Honkistal Ninecompas we would do it by standing on any street and watching motorists for no more than 15 minutes. There are millions of drivers who could take top honors among characters who shoot fish in barrels, poison dogs, trip up cripples, cut the leash on Seeing-Eye Dogs, set fire to orphan asylums, dance at funerals, shoot robins, tell funny stories at wakes, upset baby-carriages, play mean tricks on old ladies, cheat at solitaire, deal from the bottom of the deck, throw rocks at pigeons, put poison in guppy tanks, toss stink bombs into nurseries, drive nails into the tires of visiting nurses and pull tail feathers out of baby chicks. We prefer all those fellows on post-office "Wanted" photos, most of the Rogues Gallery inmates, Billy the Kid, Jack the Ripper, Slinky the Hyena, and plenty of guys doing life stretches as killers. In fact the latter seem comparatively refreshing. For how much longer can the "Oh, let's be a stinker!" mood be stood for? We're just asking... and asking it from a tree-top.

Taxes Are High Because Of Improper Policies

One reason taxes are high is that we just don't permit governmental agencies to follow some of the orderly long-range policies no private enterprise could afford not to follow.

Government buildings are not immune to destruction by fire, windstorm or flood. But no insurance is carried on thousands of government buildings, the theory being that it is cheaper for the government to carry its own risks. Maybe it is and maybe it isn't. That's a matter for actuaries to determine.

Government buildings and equipment wear out or become obsolete, the same as any kind of buildings and equipment. Yet thousands of government-agency budgets include no item for depreciation, nothing set aside for replacements. That too may or may not make sense. I leave the question to competent financiers.

But there is one aspect of public finance that makes no sense whatever to me, and that's the failure of most communities to build up funds for future school plant needs that can be easily measured in advance.

All over the country communities are up against urgent needs for more schoolhouses. Almost everywhere they are hard put to lay hands on the money to build them.

Yet they have known — or could have known — for 10 or 15 years that they'd be needing those school facilities now. The children who have to be accommodated in schools somehow have been alive and growing up through those years. There has never been any doubt that the taxpayers would have to take care of them.

But now when the taxpayers are up against the gun they complain that the large amount of money required is simply not available.

But it could have been available if smaller amounts had been stashed away in the sock every year as a part of orderly budgeting to meet known needs.

Many parents start savings accounts when their babies are born to provide for the youngsters' education when they are older. Why shouldn't a community start a savings account for every baby at birth to provide the future buildings in which it can get an education?

A school building fund built up of yearly allocations proportional to registered births would pay for the necessary buildings when they are needed, and without knocking the foundation out from under the community tax structure.

Two main objections will be raised: (1) That demagogues or spendthrift groups will get their hands on the money and blow it for something else. I'd hate to think we aren't bright enough to set up strong enough safeguards against that. (2) That it isn't fair to tax people for public facilities until they're actually needed. But we tax them to build H-bombs and battleships we hope we'll never need. Why not to build schoolhouses we know we'll need?

Sometimes I think we deserve all the public headaches we suffer.

Pat McGinnis, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, is on the job an average of over ten hours a day, much of the time riding its trains to check details of their operation. He is often accompanied by his wife, who is credited with the "1955 look" now being applied to its new rolling stock—black, white, and vivid Chinese vermilion.

Recently, relates Clarence

Dean, Mr. McGinnis was standing in one of the New Haven yards when one of the newly-painted box cars rolled by. A nearby workman, unaware of President Pat's identity, growled, "Pipe those colors! Looks like a circus train!" Then McGinnis boomed, "It has to be when I have clowns like you working for me!"

Mike Connolly overheard this in Hollywood: "The divorce worked out perfectly. She got the kids and he got the maid."

Cancer Specialist Tells Of Hope From Researchers

Federal Aid To Hunting

—by H. G. Heller

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. In his absence, his column today is by Dr. John R. Heller, one of the great cancer specialists in the world, who writes about some thrillingly hopeful developments in the struggle against this most dread of the killer diseases. A veteran medical officer of the Public Health Service, Dr. Heller first gained prominence as leader of the Service's nationwide campaign against venereal disease during World War II. In 1945, when Congress authorized a greatly expanded research attack on other important killing and crippling diseases, Dr. Heller was chosen to head the National Cancer Institute. It is one of the seven research units of the National Institutes of Health, branch of the Public Health Service, whose laboratory buildings and huge new clinical center are located at Bethesda, Md.

By Dr. John R. Heller, Director, National Cancer Institute, Public Health Service, Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Washington, September 9 — Five years ago a young boy stricken with leukemia, a form of cancer affecting the blood-forming organs of the body, entered a hospital in Boston for treatment. Leukemia is a fatal disease, and the boy's life expectancy was a matter of only a few months, if not weeks.

He is alive today because of the progress that has been made, during the period of his illness, in the treatment of leukemia with drugs.

It is impossible to estimate how long he can live, for as yet no cure has been found for this disease. But the longer he survives, the better are his chances of being saved should a cure be found.

Many children suffering from leukemia have, in fact, received this gift of added months or years of life. The drugs they are taking, while not curative, nevertheless exert a strong palliative effect in many cases, so that the distressing symptoms of the disease disappear and the youngster looks, acts and feels like a normal, healthy child.

This in itself offers some measure of comfort to the parents as well.

The work that is being done on leukemia is but one part of a great effort that medical science is making to find and develop new chemical compounds, or drugs, with which to treat cancer. As far back as the time of Hippocrates, the great physician of ancient Greece, attempts were made to treat cancers with ointments and medicines, but without success.

In modern times the treatment of choice has been X-ray, radium, or surgery, and many cancers are cured by such means. Since the war, very real progress has been made in cancer chemotherapy (treatment with drugs). Although no cures have been achieved by the drugs alone, many chemical compounds are being used to advantage in the treatment of cancer, and chemotherapy is without question one of the most promising fields of cancer research.

People should not pin their hopes, however, on a "miracle drug" for cancer. It is possible that no single drug will ever be found to do the job, because cancer may not be a single disease but rather a whole family of diseases.

For instance, leukemia is quite a different medical problem from solid tumors which may occur in different organs of the body such as the lungs or stomach. Instead of a "miracle drug," it is more likely that a whole battery of drugs will have to be developed to deal with the many different forms of cancer that occur in human beings.

For this reason, the program of research that is now under way is a very broad one. It really amounts to a thorough and systematic search for chemical compounds that have the ability to attack tumor tissue and arrest the growth of cancer. Thousands of compounds have already been "screened" and many thousands are still to be tested.

To date, a small number have shown results promising enough to warrant further, careful study. Those that prove safe for human use are given clinical trials; that is, they are administered to groups of patients under carefully controlled conditions to see how effective they really are in treating various kinds of cancers. The drugs that come through these trials successfully are made available to physicians everywhere.

Drugs that are useful against cancer do their work in several ways, depending on the nature of the compound.

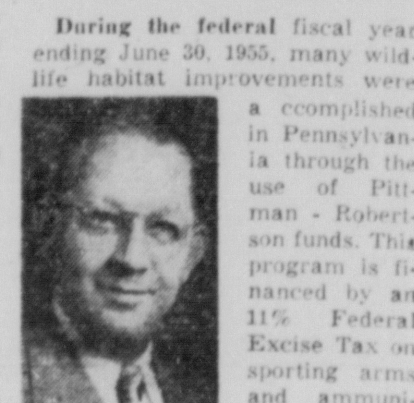

Some chemical agents make it difficult for the cancer cells to live in an altered environment. There are the hormones, such as ACTH and cortisone. Some agents interfere with the use of metabolic elements essential to the maintenance of life of tumor cells. Others, acting like poisons, inhibit the growth of tumor cells.

The kinds of compounds to be used, either singly or in combination, treating a particular patient with cancer, depend upon many considerations which must be evaluated by the physician in charge of the case.

Research in cancer chemotherapy has been greatly stimulated recently as the result of several developments.

Scientists working for many years have evolved methods of tumor transplantation in laboratory animals, and techniques of tissue culture, which are extremely useful in those lines of research concerned with the effects of chemical compounds. One of the most important of these accomplishments is the transplantation of human cancers in animals so that experiments which would not otherwise be possible can be conducted on the living tumor tissue after its removal from the patient.

An egret is a bird that furnishes feathers for hats.

During the federal fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, many wildlife habitat improvements were accomplished in Pennsylvania through the use of Pittman-Robertson funds. This program is financed by an 11% Federal Excise Tax on sporting arms and ammunition. After approval of state-recommended projects federal funds are provided to reimburse a state to the extent of 75% of the costs within the amount allotted. Of the $445,109.32 (100%) authorized for Game Commission use on land utilization work in the last fiscal year the Commission used $333,831.99, or all of its 75% in March, for projects under the program in Pennsylvania. Unfinished projects were continued until June 30 through the use of monies from the State Game Fund.

The state's P-R Wildlife Restoration Program during the last fiscal year comprised items of value to the hunters and trappers of Pennsylvania too numerous to list. These projects, largely food and cover, were administered however on State Game Lands, Cooperative Farm Game Lands, the Allegheny National Forest, the Loyalhanna and Conemaugh Flood control areas, and many Rabbit Farms and other areas leased by the Commission. These endeavors required an outlay for per diem labor, seedlings, seed, lime, fertilizer, and other services and materials supplied through this cooperative federal-state program.

The following will partly indicate the diversity and extent of the Game Commission's P-R program last year. On State Game Lands and federal or leased lands, excepting Farm Game Projects: 181 game food strips were cleared on a total of nearly 250 acres; almost 1500 food strips were planted for a total of over 2500 acres; cover crops seeded on 966 food strips totaled some 1500 acres; fields mowed to improve sod and nesting cover totaled nearly 4500 acres; fields limed or fertilized came to more than 1100 acres; woodland borders cut to allow sunlight to produce natural food and cover for wildlife were made on over 428,000 linear feet of edge that averaged 46 feet in width, for a total of about 470 acres; sugar-crop farmers planted over 1400 acres on State Game Lands, leaving 29 acres of grain standing for wildlife; share-croppers turned back to the Commission over 8000 bushels of grain and 19 bushels of timothy seed also.

MAN PLAYING THE TYPEWRITER

Hated to desert ya in steamy hot July. Painful to alert ya but hadda say G'bye. Hadda do some snoozing. See about my putter. Find waters one could cruise in. Where B'way sharks don't nutter.

Just mused'nd round and frittered. Did nothing in parties. Kept my heart unfettered. Saw the time go quick. Watched the world allowing. Remembering the crack: "The nicest part of going is knowing you'll be back."

Songwriter Martin Schwebel plays the one about the Broadway Guy, weekending in a nearby Catskills resort. He asked a pretty girl "for a dance."

As I t'hey mamboid, he squeezed her, cooing: "You're beautiful."

On t'he second squeeze he said: "You have a gorjiss shape."

Finally, he gasped: "Look, this is my last night. I have to go back in the morning."

To which she baby-stared: "I'm dancing as fast as I can!"

That reminds us of the line about romancing: "When she starts removing her earrings you're on 2nd Base."

At the RSVP last night some of the unemployed actors were having "The Downs."

"The toughest thing in show-biz," said a newcomer, "is making friends on the way up."

"Himm," hum'd an oldtimer, "have you ever tried making some on the way down?"

35 Cases Listed For September Term Of County Court

Guilty Pleas To Be Heard Next Monday

THE SEPTEMBER term of Monroe County Court opens Monday at 10 a. m. with 35 cases slated for presentation.

In all cases where persons are charged on specific charges these persons may appear Monday to enter guilty pleas. If they do not choose to plead guilty, the cases will be held over for the December grand jury. There is no grand jury for this term.

Included in the cases prepared for presentation are six charging violation of motor vehicle code laws, 10 for non-support, two juvenile hearings, four charges of violation of liquor control laws and seven charges of burglary or attempted larceny.

Pleas To Be Taken

Cases in which pleas will be taken are the following:

Commonwealth vs. George Grant Kossman, Dunmore and the Commonwealth vs. Lemar Ardell Hubert, Scranton. Kossman and Hubert are charged with attempted larceny. Both are in county jail. The men were arrested by Stroudsburg borough police after they allegedly attempted to take a tire from the rear of a car in the borough. John Tretheway is prosecutor.

Commonwealth vs. Edward Smith, East Stroudsburg. Smith is charged with driving while his license was under suspension and before it had been reinstated. Travis Seese, East Stroudsburg assistant police chief, is the prosecutor.

Commonwealth vs. Romolo Soncini Jr. of Philadelphia, in which Soncini is charged with public indecency. Prosecutor is Walter Geaslen, Minisink Hills official.

Worthless Checks

Two charges of "passing worthless checks" and one of "fraud on a hotel, boarding house or innkeeper" are lodged against Victor W. Evans, Rochester, N. Y. Prosecutors are Mrs. Edna M. Schragger and George Patrylak.

Two charges each have been filed by an agent of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board, Edward F. Sikorski of District Two, Wilkes-Barre, against Arthur Goweritz and Adolph Wilhelm of Saylorsburg. The charges are "sale of liquor and/or malt or brewed beverages to a minor" and "permitting minors to frequent licensed premises."

Five counts of burglary are lodged against Eugene Eickhoff, East Stroudsburg. One count of burglary is filed against his alleged conspirator, Jack Cardwell, also East Stroudsburg. Eickhoff and Cardwell were arrested two months ago for a series of burglaries in the East Stroudsburg area including a garage, service stations and others. Travis Seese is the prosecutor.

Drunken Driving

Five cases of drunken driving are slated for this term. They are the following:

Commonwealth vs. Alfred Haskin, Swiftwater with John Tretheway as prosecutor; Commonwealth vs. Donald Van Why, East Stroudsburg, with Travis Seese as prosecutor; Commonwealth vs. Alfred Miller, East Stroudsburg, with C. W. Counterman (constable) as prosecutor; Commonwealth vs. Joseph Baszewsky, Philadelphia, with Joseph G. Warkala, State police at Fern Ridge as prosecutor; Commonwealth vs. Arthur C.

TOUCHED BY THE plight of the people in the East Stroudsburg area, three youngsters who reside in Colonia, a part of Woodbridge Township, N. J., made a door-to-door collection in their neighborhood for flood relief and collected $51.56 which they brought to The Woodbridge Independent-Leader. That newspaper in turn sent a check for that sum to The Daily Record. Left to right are Ann Dorrian, 10, of 220 Colonia Blvd.; Janet Neuhaus, 9, of 443 Fairview Ave.; Janice Ablonczy, 9, of 225 Colonia Blvd. and Miss Ruth Wolk of The Independent-Leader staff.

Cramer Jr., East Stroudsburg with Edward T. Beneski, Stroudsburg State police as prosecutor.

All of the above-mentioned defendants will be permitted to enter pleas on Monday in court.

Non-Support Cases

Two of the 10 non-support hearings to be conducted are proceedings started from outside the area under terms of the uniform support laws. Both involve Monroe County men.

First of these is the proceeding against William Featherington, East Stroudsburg, filed by his father, James, of Baltimore, Md. through the office of the Monroe County district attorney.

The second case involves Joseph Teal, Saylorsburg, in a proceeding started against him by his mother, Gertrude Teal of Easton.

Other non-support hearings are the following: Commonwealth vs. Francis Kunkle with Carrie E. Kunkle as prosecutrix; Commonwealth vs. Clyde Heintzelman with Pauline Heintzelman as prosecutrix; Commonwealth vs. Edward Bensley with Shirley Young as prosecutrix; Commonwealth vs. Harry Whitmore, with Betty Whitmore as prosecutrix (in this case and the Karcher case following, the charge is "desertion and non-support"); Commonwealth vs. Ernest Karcher filed by Claire Karcher; Commonwealth vs. Paul Richard Rozniak with Ruth Reisenwitz, mother of the wife and Barbara Rozniak, the wife, as prosecuting parties; Commonwealth vs. Charles M. Hippler with Betty Jane Hippler as prosecutrix.

Third Hearing

Slated for a third hearing before Judge Fred W. Davis, will be the case of the Commonwealth vs. Mrs. LaRue Metzler, Mrs. Lucille Hahn, Martin Beers, Joyce Francione and Wellington Beers. Prosecutor in the non-support case is David Powell, representing the local office of the Department of Public Assistance. The DPA is attempting to bring support to the mother of the defendants from private sources. Two men will appear for sentencing during this term of court. One of these is Charles Gilbert

Legion Post Acknowledges Contribution

GEORGE N. KEMP Post, American Legion, is carrying on a drive among its friends and members to pay for repairs to its home on Washington St., East Stroudsburg.

The Legion building, like most of those located near the creek, was badly hit by the flood.

One donation came in yesterday from an "outside" source which Legion officials felt merited high praise. The letter accompanying the contribution, sent in by Dr. Floyd W. Shafer, Stroudsburg, said:

"I understand that the Legion is now soliciting its members and friends for contributions for the purpose of repairing the damage you sustained in the flood.

Donates $200

"I am not a member of your post, but I have been greatly impressed by your activities, especially the Youth Center which you have operated for a number of years. I consider this one of the outstanding contributions made by any organization to the Stroudsburgs.

"I am enclosing my check for $200 as my contribution so that this worthwhile activity may be continued."

Any other residents who would like to contribute to the reconstruction project at the post should contact a Legion official.

Girl Gives 'Everything' To Red Cross

Ten-year-old Rebecca Ackroyd of Nazareth RD3 might well represent the entire outpouring of human compassion for the people hit by the Aug. 18-19 flood.

Her youth, plus the independent decisions she made to extend her "widow's mite" particularly fits her act as symbolic of all the aid received here.

Rebecca sent $2 to help the people of the Stroudsburgs. In her letter to East Stroudsburg National Bank, she said:

"Dear Stroudsburg Red Cross, 'My name is Rebecca Ackroyd. I am ten years old, but I understand what the flood did. I've seen film and pictures in the newspapers. In fact I saw Easton and Phillipsburg. I've seen Stroudsburg and I think the flood hit harder in your towns than any other place, that's why I'm sending $2. It's all I have in the way of money. I didn't want my money to go to candy or any foolish things. Perhaps this little bit will help someone in distress. Please help someone with my $2."

"Very truly yours, Rebecca Ackroyd."

Truck Runs Away, Hits Car But Misses Several Others

SWIFTWATER — A brakeless tractor-trailer ran down the Pocono Gates hill on Route 611 at 3:35 p.m. yesterday and ran off the highway to avoid hitting a line of cars waiting to cross the temporary bridge here.

Mount Pocono State police said the driver of the truck was Joseph Boccodora, 33, of 57 Slater St., Paterson, N.J. Only one car was hit by the truck in the mishap, police said.

Driver of the car was Donald J. Mooney, 29, of 16 Caroline Lane, Scotia, N.Y. Two persons in the Mooney car—his wife, Marguerite, 27 and 1. Phillip Siegel of Hudson, N.Y.—were slightly injured, police said.

Police reported that Boccodora told them his brakes were working until he reached a point in front of the Pocono Gates. Then he found he had "no air", police said.

The truck ran out of control down the hill. To avoid hitting the line of vehicles at the bridge, police said Boccodora swung his truck over a five-foot embankment. The truck kept going another 275 feet and lost most of its load of coal, police said.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Deubler (Lawrence Studio)

Nancy Wiley Is Bride Of C. E. Deubler

Tobyhanna — The Tobyhanna Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Nancy A. Wiley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar C. Wiley, of Tobyhanna, to Charles E. Deubler, son of LeRoy Deubler, of Stroudsburg, and the late Mrs. Deubler.

Rev. Donald G. Nowers performed the ceremony at 7:30 on Saturday night, September 3. It was a candlelight wedding. The altar was banked with green ferns, vines and white gladioli, and sprays of white glads and white ribbon marked the pews.

Josephine Latch was organist and Lois Hewitt was soloist, singing "O Perfect Love"; "What God Has Given," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of cream slipper satin. The tulle yoke had a high neckline and was edged with seed pearls. The long sleeves tapered to points at the wrist. Fashioned with a long waistline, the dress ended in a long court train. Her fingertip veil of pure silk illusion was trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a fan-shaped bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and ivy and wore a gold cross, the gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Helen Olsummer, of Greenstown, was the maid of honor and Miss Peggy Brace, of Scranton, was bridesmaid. The flower girl was Jackie Ann Lewis, cousin of the bride.

They all wore waltz length gowns of white nylon shantung, made with high necklines and short sleeves. The tight-fitting bodies had a long waistline and the full skirts fell from gathers at the hipline. They wore short white mitts and small white hats. The flower girl wore a miniature crown. They all carried cascade bouquets of ivy and deep rose gladioli.

Thomas Wiley, brother of the bride, of Tobyhanna, was best man and the ushers were LeRoy Lions, of Baltimore, Md., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and Norman Wiley, uncle of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a blue print dress with navy accessories and a purple and white orchid corsage.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church school rooms for about 150 guests. Vases of white gladioli and ferns decorated the hall. The wedding cake was made in four tiers, each tier raised on a pedestal.

For her going-away costume, the bride chose beige silk dress with red accessories and wore a white orchid corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Coolbaugh Consolidated High School and of the Hahnemann Hospital School of Nursing, Scranton, and attended Mansfield State Teachers College. A registered nurse, she is employed at the General Hospital of Monroe County.

Mr. Deubler was graduated from East Stroudsburg High School and is employed at Ronsan Corp., East Stroudsburg.

They will make their home at 2 Oakland Ave., East Stroudsburg.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Ruth Lewis and Dorothy Williams; Helen Olsummer and Peggy Brace.

Well, the Daily Record's "flood edition" has been scooped but good. Residents fortunate enough to be on the mailing list of The Beacon Hill Flash received their mimeographed flood final yesterday. I wish ours were as complete and as interesting.

Edited by Eugene and Carole Anderson, daughters of the W. Ashley Andersons, the publication indicates that their father may have to look to his laurels when it comes to graphic writing.

In all fairness to the Record, we'll have to admit that the Beacon operates under less restrictions. They can publish poetry, for instance. In some cases the full story can only be told in poetry. Carole's poem about the kaleidoscope of arms—Fat arms, skinny arms, hairy arms and tattooed arms. All being held up high. Hoping that the needle will forget and pass them by" tells it far better than any prose story on the typhoid shots could.

And with no necessity for documenting their stories, some of the spectacular ones — like the one of the missing bus we had to give up in the face of the evidence — could appear in the Beacon.

By and large, however, the copy is edited with a great deal of restraint. The whole history of the flood is told in two paragraphs. One of the more poignant of which is:

"The second night of Hurricane Dianne our family lay in bed listening to the rain. We loved the sound of rain for Daddy had said, 'One more week without rain and we will not have running water.' When we were listening to the rain we had no idea that less than a mile away Camp Davis's children were taking refuge in a farm-house which a few minutes later was washed away with everybody in it."

Their tributes to those who helped in the disaster are particularly effective. Especially the one to the "Men of the Night" of whom they say "I wish there would be many other people in other religious would be as kind and as generous as these men."

They are effective headline writers, too. "Women are Brave"; "Isn't He Mean?" and "Who is He? The Poor Boy" are a few of the more tantalizing.

Well, I'll put the Beacon Hill Flash away with the rest of the flood memorabilia, and hope I can find it when the editors are both famous, so I can prove I knew them when.

In addition to being the hardest of minerals, the diamond is the gem which has the widest range of color or luster.

Playoffs Get Underway Tomorrow

ACTION in the Pocono Mountains Baseball League post-season playoffs will get underway tomorrow on two different fronts. Action is carded for 2 p.m. in each case.

Pennant winning Saylorsburg will be at home with third place Tannersville. Bob Bonser will pitch for the Lakers, while either Dick Peecharka or Bill Peecharka receive the mound assignment for Tannersville.

Second Clash

Second place Lake Harmony and fourth place Kunkletown will match ability on the latter's home field. Pete Lobosky will probably do the hurling for Lake Harmony, while Asher Smith toes the rubber for Kunkletown.

Both opening round playoff series will be decided on the best two-out-of-three basis. The championship round will also be a two-out-of-three affair.

If a third game is necessary in the first round it will be decided by a flip of a coin.

Canadian Wins Race

TORONTO, Sept. 9 (AP)—Bonschilled Cliff Lundsen of New Toronto, the only survivor of a starting field of 30, completed the grueling 32-mile Lakefront Marathon Swim at 9 p.m. EDT tonight.

It took him 19 hours, 48 minutes and nine seconds to cover the distance.

Jackpot

His swim, made in frigid Lake Ontario water ranging from 54 to 60 degrees and in the teeth of a stiff northeast wind for half the distance, brought him fame and a financial jackpot of at least $25,600.

It was an epic of courage and determination for the 24-year-old swim instructor who has earned $23,950 in seven previous Canadian National Exhibition swims over shorter distances.

Trabert, Hoad Stroke Into Semi-Final Round Activity In National Tennis Championships

By Will Grimsley
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 9 (AP)—Tony Trabert and Lewis Hoad smashed into the semi-finals of the National Tennis Championships behind sledgehammer attacks today and set up a postlude to the Davis Cup challenge round.

Trabert, America's Wimbledon titleholder and number one seed, smothered Herbie Flam, the relentless retriever from Beverly Hills, Calif., 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Hoad, Australia's seemingly indifferent court killer, unleashed his pulverizing power in spurts to eliminate Texas' Sam Giammalva, 6-3, 6-2, 5-7, 6-3.

These two football-sized athletes clash in the semi-finals tomorrow while the other bracket throws together the American and Australian champions, Vic Seixas and Ken Rosewall, respectively.

The form which prevailed in the men's division failed to materialize with the unpredictable women. A 17-year-old Hollywood, Calif., girl and an English Wightman Cup player crashed unexpectedly into the semi-finals. The schoolgirl, Barbara Breit, eliminated one of the hot tournament favorites, Mrs. Beverly Baker Fleitz of Long Beach, Calif., 9-6, 6-5, 0. Pat Ward of England trounced the little giant-killer, Belmar Gunderson of Ft. Meade, Md., 9-7, 6-0.

Carter To Seek Fourth Championship

CINCINNATI, Sept. 9 (AP)—Walt (Bud) Smith, Cincinnati, will defend his world's lightweight boxing title against former champion Jimmy Carter of New York here on Oct. 19. It was announced today.

Promoter Sam Becker said the fight will be held in Cincinnati Garden, with the area within 75 miles of Cincinnati blacked out of the television.

Speedy Trial Indicated For Mrs. Silver

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9 (AP)—Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash said today that, if a magistrate holds Mrs. Gertrude Silver for court action at a scheduled hearing next Monday, she will be brought to trial "as speedily as we can" on charges she was an accessory in the abortion death of her food chain heiress daughter.

The daughter, Mrs. Doris Jean Ostericher, an attractive red-haired 22-year-old, collapsed and died in a North Philadelphia apartment last Aug. 24. A medical examiner's report declared her death was "homicide" and that it was caused by an unsuccessful attempt at abortion.

Hints New Evidence

Dash disclosed that subpoenas were issued for witnesses, their identities kept secret, and hinted

Confidential Magazine Fights Order Barring It From Mails

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Confidential magazine, already beset with millions of dollars in libel suits, went to court today to fight a new threat—a post office order barring the magazine from the mails.

The "withhold from dispatch" order went out last Aug. 27, but the Post Office Department made no official announcement at the time and the order was not disclosed until the suit was brought in U. S. District Court today.

The suit was filed by Edward Bennett Williams, who acted as counsel for Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in last year's Senate censure hearings. In it, Williams claimed the Post Office Department violated the law and the Constitution by: (1) not telling Confidential it was issuing the order; (2) failing to hold hearings; and (3) failing to give any grounds for holding up the mailing.

Face 'Ruins'

The magazine, the suit said, "has expended substantial sums of money in carefully building up among the American public a valuable reputation and good will for impartial, objective and fearless reporting of newsworthy events."

If the post office order is allowed to stand, the magazine said, it will suffer "financial ruin" since it must "forthwith discontinue publication."

The suit disclosed that the withhold order sent out by Postmaster Gen. Summerfield instructed the postmaster at Mount Morris, Ill., to impound copies of Confidential and send them to Washington "for examination and advice as to their mailability."

The magazine is published at Mount Morris.

Williams said the magazine, first issued in 1952, has a bimonthly circulation of 4½ million copies.

Summerfield's order, Williams told reporters, didn't reach Mount Morris until nearly all of the current issue had been mailed. Only 15,000 copies were impounded, he said, but these were later released since the bulk of the November issue copies already were in the mail.

Libel Suits

The magazine has figured in a recent series of libel suits brought against it, largely by Hollywood people denying the accuracy of articles dealing with them.

Actor Robert Mitchum sought a million dollars in a suit filed May 9. On June 18, Errol Flynn put in a claim for a million; on July 18, Heiress Doris Duke claimed 2½ millions, and on July 25, actress Elizabeth Scott brought suit for 3 millions. These actions total 7½ millions.

Stock Prices Edge Forward To New Peaks

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 (AP)—The stock market advanced modestly today to its fourth straight new record high mark.

Railroads provided motive power for the rise, and they had major help from steels, motors, and aluminum issues.

The market began in a hesitant manner, went forward with new vigor, and then it subsided from its best in late trading.

Prices spread over a range of around 2 points higher to 3 points lower with plus signs holding a small edge.

Reynolds metals was an individual sensation with a rise of 21 points at 27½. Its best gain was 23 points.

Average Up

The stock has been split five-for-one, and today the new stock began trading on a "when issued" basis. It opened on 6,000 shares at 54½, its low for the day, hit a high of 57½, and closed at 55½.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 20 cents at $178.10. It gained 10 cents on each of the two previous days and $1.30 last Tuesday.

The tail component did best with a rise of 50 cents while industrials were up 10 cents and utilities remained unchanged.

Volume was good at 2,480,000 shares. This compares with 2,470,000 shares traded yesterday.

Former Flier Denies Charge

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9 (AP)—Rea S. Van Fossan, an ex-Air Force captain, pleaded innocent today to charges that he extracted a secret document from Air Force files and gave it to the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

U. S. Dist. Judge Matthew McGuire set his trial for Nov. 28 and permitted Van Fossan to remain at liberty under a $10,000 bond.

A federal grand jury indicted the former intelligence officer Aug. 10 on charges of unlawfully removing a classified document from the files of the Air Force office of special investigation and unlawfully converting it to his own use.

Six additional counts charged him with falsely denying that he had handled the document when questioned about it by Air Force officers last July.

The document is a 112-page file on Jay Lovestone, executive secretary of the AFL's Free Trade Union Committee, who helped organize the Communist party in the United States in the 1920s and who was later expelled from it by Joseph Stalin. The dossier was prepared by the FBI in 1962 and came into possession of the Un-American Activities Committee at a time when the group was taking testimony about Lovestone at a closed hearing.

Nursing Care Report Given By Red Cross

"MEDICAL and nursing services to Pennsylvania victims of the Eastern States floods will be greater than anticipated," according to Gertrude Landmesser, Red Cross director of disaster nursing. Miss Landmesser made the announcement yesterday in Scranton, where she is reviewing nursing problems with members of her staff assigned to Pennsylvania.

With 3,000 persons injured and more than 100 hospitalized during the flood and its aftermath, additional cases of disaster-caused injury and illness are coming to light daily, as people who minimized their wounds during the excitement of the emergency report to hospitals and Red Cross offices.

The more serious of the injuries includes fractures and severe lacerations, many of which have been contaminated by germ-laden pollution left by the receding flood waters. The impact of contact with swiftly rushing debris caused some of the worst wounds.

Report On Illness

Illnesses reported include those incidental to immersion and those brought about by contact with contaminated food and water. Also, many previously existing health conditions, such as heart and respiratory troubles were aggravated by exposure and strain.

Miss Lucy Johns, director of disaster nursing in Pennsylvania, said Red Cross Nursing Service has been on the job constantly since the flood, moving rapidly to help chapters recruit and assign nurses

University Glee Club To Open Camp

WITH A training schedule that ranges from rigorous calisthenics to voice practice on 17th century madrigals, the New York University Glee Club opens its 19th annual "pre-season" camp Sunday at Pocono Pines.

The week-long conditioning period will prepare 60 student singers for the Glee Club's 73rd season, which includes concerts in the New York metropolitan area, an eight-day tour through Pennsylvania in February, and the 26th annual Town Hall Concert on Dec. 9.

The annual camp concert for visitors and residents of the Poconos area will be given at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 17 in the Pocono Crest Casino.

First Of Kind

Organized by Prof. Alfred M. Greenfield, who is beginning his 31st year as director of the group, the NYU Glee Club training camp was the first of its kind in the United States. The students rise shortly after dawn and follow a daily routine of voice training, rehearsals, organized exercise, and competitive sports. They are supervised by a staff of seven persons.

"A week of intensive training like this is worth 10 weeks of rehearsal during the school year," says Prof. Greenfield.

At this year's camp rehearsals the students will work on a group of Welsh songs, principally for linguistic practice. This phase of training is under the direction of Dr. Robert A. Fowkes, who studied in Wales under a Guggenheim Fellowship and who is now associate professor of German at NYU's University College of Arts and Science. The Glee Club's repertoire also includes popular American ballads, spirituals, madrigals, and college songs.

Assisting At Camp

Others who will be assisting Prof. Greenfield are Norton Stevenson, chief clerk of the New York Waterfront Commission and Glee Club alumnus; Howard Jarratt, concert tenor, Glee Club coach, and former star of "My Darlin' Aida"; John Powell, former Glee Club coach and now faculty member of Douglass College in New Brunswick, N. J.; Norman Myrvik, concert tenor; and William Richards, conductor of the Junior Varsity Glee Club. Dr. William H. Stahl, chairman of the department of classics at NYU's University College will direct athletic activities.

From Friday to Sunday, Sept. 18.

Foot Bridges Erected At Henryville

TWO FOOT bridges are being erected in the Henryville area so that youngsters can get to school, Claude Metzgar, district highway superintendent, announced last night.

Metzgar said one foot bridge will be built over Brodheads Creek in the vicinity of Route 90 and John Transue's Bridge. The second will be erected about a half-mile away.

The highway official also disclosed that workmen have been on the job day and night to speed completion of the temporary bridge over Pocono Creek on W. Main St.

Barring any unforeseen circumstances, he said, the span may be ready for Sunday traffic.

Mrs. Albert Heads Study For Exchange

LEHIGH VALLEY Social Service Exchange board of directors yesterday voted yesterday to have a committee on technical advancement headed by Mrs. Jean Albert of Monroe County Children's Aid Society review the policy statement of the exchange.

Mrs. Albert filed a report for her committee with the board which resulted in decision to have her committee make the survey on policy statement.

Mrs. J. W. Mirandon, another Monroe County board member, attended the meeting in Bethlehem. Mrs. Ruth W. Morrish, supervisor of county administrative budget of Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance was the speaker. She described the use Public Assistance makes of the exchange work in the state from the 1930's to the present day.

The request of Public Assistance and other agencies for coverage on many matters, she noted, was a factor in setting up the Lehigh Valley Social Service Exchange.

former members of the Glee Club and their families will hold a reunion at the camp.
